

Collaboration with HTMi

To whom it may concern,

InterContinental Davos is proud to collaborate with HTMi and looks back on many successful internship and task force assignments of HTMi students within different departments in our hotel.

The hands-on education approach at HTMi supports their students in building up valuable skills and knowledge to take on additional responsibilities during their internship and perform their duty in an independent and professional manner. This helps us to assign HTMi students to skilful, interesting and challenging tasks during their internship.

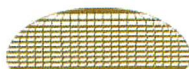

In our Food & Beverage department we can assign HTMi students in a way that they get direct guest contact during their internship and providing them with tasks like being responsible for a small station in the restaurant, including order taking, billing and beverages preparation or supporting other employees during the a la carte or banqueting service.

The trainees also have enough skills and knowledge to open and close outlets by themselves, work complete shifts alone in the room service department or Club Lounge and manage to conduct banqueting set-ups and preparation works without supervision. In the kitchen, students also work in an independent manner and can handle preparation works such preparing and setting-up buffets for the breakfast service, the Club Lounge or events and are also able to prepare basic a la carte orders without direct supervision.

We hope to further strengthen the existing collaboration and appreciate the support and good relationship from HTMi to coordinate internships, task force assignments, on-site training sessions or job placements at InterContinental Davos.
